

Art Johnson

Art Johnson is Chief of Exploration with Hydrate Energy International. Art is a ChevronTexaco retiree with over 25 years of experience. At Chevron he had a variety of assignments in New Orleans including Division Geologist and member of the New Trends Team. Art was instrumental in initiating Chevron's Gulf of Mexico program for gas hydrate studies in 1995 and is an acknowledged industry expert in the field of gas hydrate exploration and evaluation.

Art has advised Congress and the White House on gas hydrate issues and presently chairs the U.S. Department of Energy Methane Hydrate Advisory Committee and co-chairs the AAPG Hydrate Committee. He is currently Adjunct Research Professor in the Chemical Engineering Department at Tulane University.

